

What is the Montana Shared Catalog? What can it do for me?

The Department of Environmental Quality, Water Quality Planning Bureau Library's new online catalog, called the Montana Shared Catalog (MSC), is a powerful tool that will help you locate all types of library information quickly and easily.

- Search DEQ WQPB Library's holdings, other libraries' holdings, cataloged Web sites, and the Internet
- View book reviews, book covers, and book summaries
- Search full-text magazine indexes with the same easy-to-use Web interface that you use to find books, videos, tapes, and other library materials
- Scan bestseller lists and see which of these titles are available in your library
- Create a personal account, and use this account to place holds on books, tapes, and so forth. You can use your account to have us automatically e-mail you when materials of interest to you come into the library

Using the Montana Shared Catalog Outside the Library

You can use the Montana Shared Catalog (MSC) from any computer that is on the Internet, and has a Web browser. This means you can look for materials or check your library account's status from home, office, school, or anywhere else in the world.

Just go to the library's web site and click on the link to the MSC, or go to the Montana Library Network's home site and follow the link there:

Review

This life of Adams is an extraordinary portrait of an extraordinary man who has not received his due in America's early political history but whose life work significantly affected his country's future. McCullough is here following his Pulitzer Prize-winning biography, Truman, and his subjects have read more...
